Summary

when Hakodas crew gets shipwrecked on a small island just out of fire nation waters everyone assumed they were alone on the island. that was until Hakoda made an alarming discovery on the other inhibitor here. very quickly the crew realized that they cant just leave a kid alone on the island and try to do something about it. all the while their elusive new friend is just trying to dig up what he had left behind of his life and why he was on the island in the first place.

Notes

Inspired by Salvage by MuffinLance.

so you can tell this is heavily based off of muffinlances wonderful fic Salvage. along with a few other things i came up with while trying and failing to write another fic im working on and this story started out as a little two paragraph idea then morphed into this. I like the idea of the whole crew just seeing a dang teenager alone and needing to decide what to do from there.

Chapter 1

YUP! I DID THE THING!

please let me know if anything goes on with the link here, first podfic ever and all that!
hope you enjoy :)
